Bride of Two Months Held in $10,000 Bail in Portland Case

Because, according to his story to police, he sought money to aid his bride of two months, who is held in Maine in lieu of $10,000 bail, Harry K. Dobson of Waltham faces a judge today, charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

News clipping which was found in his pocket told of Mrs. Ruth G. Dobson, 16, who was arrested in Greenfield, N. H., and taken to Portland, Me., where she was said to have confessed to two burglaries.

"That's my wife," said Dobson, "but she was only my lookout. I won't tell you more about it now."

Dobson is held in connection with a burglary at the home of Henry Z. Kelly, 10, Brighton, Kelly, with his sister, Miss Theresa Kelly, and his niece, Katherine Kelly, 14, of Foster st., Brighton, were away from home early in the evening.

Miss Kelly and the girl returned together, entered the house by the rear door and were in the kitchen when they heard sounds and noise of a light opening. Then it was her brother, Miss Kelly called to him. A voice answered her, but it was not the voice of her brother.

Katherine Kelly was so terrified that she ran through the rear screen door without opening it to get out of the house. Miss Kelly followed her to the rear of the house and screamed for help.

Two motorcycle policemen were sent to the house. The burglar left the house and ran across the rear yard toward Sparhawk st. James O'Rourke, Sparhawk st., saw the man running down the street and gave chase. He kept ahead of the man on Sparhawk and Cambridge sts. until at Union sq. he found Patrolman Charles J. McCarthy and shouted to the policeman to hold the man.

McCarthy held him in his arms while O'Rourke had stopped his car, and then pushed the man into the machine. When he was running the car, the man was holding several objects, which proved to be a watch, a platinum bracelet and a platinum bar pin. They were returned to Kelly.

At Brighton police headquarters the man admitted that his name was Harry K. Dobson after the news clipping was found in his pocket.

Firemen were seen musing in bathing a two-alarm fire which broke out early today in the basement of a wall paper store on Harvard st., Brookline.

Dense clouds of smoke filled the building and the entire neighborhood. The loss was estimated at $500.

Smoke damage was heavy in two adjoining buildings, occupied by the Lurie Drive Shop and Stenger Show repair shop.

A. Doherty is the owner of the building and also the proprietor of the wall paper concern. Spontaneous combustion is believed responsible for the blaze.

The same grand jury in Newport county, which returned indictments against Jacob Meyers and Joe Coe in connection with the "wire-tapping" swindle at Boothden in Middlebury, returned indictments against the accused store salesmen now held at Portland.

The men held in the Maine city are accused of molesting Mrs. Teabel Oliveira, wife of a prosperous Little Compton, R. I., Portuguese, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary S. Thomas, also of Little Compton, of sums said to total more than $25,000. It is believed by the authorities that other persons also have been victims.

SCIENTISTS END SESSION; HUB IS PRAISED

Harvard Also Lauded by Physiologists: Group Meets in Italy in 1932

The 1200 physiologists who have been in Boston since Sunday attending the sessions of the 15th international physiological congress, disbanded after praising the hospitality of Boston and Harvard.

The permanent international committee reported in favor of holding the next congress, three years hence, in Italy, and this motion was unanimously accepted.

Another feature included the passing of a motion in favor of a vote of thanks to the American members of the congress, to Harvard University, the city of Boston, the State of Massachusetts and the American nation in general, for their hospitality to the members of the congress during their stay here.

This motion was made from the floor by Dr. Huber of the German delegation in his native tongue, dedicating warm regard for the quality of Boston hospitality. Dr. Harcourt of the British delegation seconded the vote of thanks in English.

Dr. Henry Harkness, one of the visiting Englishmen, presented to the congress a farewell epistle of the minutes of the British Physiological Society from the time of its founding to the present.

The closing address was given by Leon Fredericq, professor of physiology, emeritus, at the University of Liege and president of the second international congress of physiologists.

The problem of old age was attacked by Dr. D. Kotovsky of Kishineff, Rumania. Under his findings, instead of a woman being as old as the rocks and a man as old as the trees, both are as old as their thoughts. For in time, particularly those of the cerebral nervous system, he said he has found evidence of "the origin of senility."

Dr. W. W. W. obtained the combined current by putting rats on the electrodes of a motor that carried a current of 200,000 volts and frequencies of the lower radio broadcasting bands.

Announcement of combining radio rays and electrical current successfully into a single ray was made by George von Wroble of the University of Helsinki, Finland.

Lieut. L. K. White, pilot and a passenger, Leonard Court, crawled from the wreckage, pulling out a package of newspapers with him before the plane began to burn. Both were shaken up.

James Barry of Quincy, who was with them when they were pursued by the officers, following their failure to stop when ordered to, was fatally shot in the chase which followed.

Carter and Kemp both pleaded guilty to the two charges of robbery, following the identification of the former.

Many Boston Debutantes to Return in Next Few Weeks After Extensive European Tours

PROGRAMS FOR TODAY, TONIGHT ON THE RADIO

Many Features Are Listed by Boston and Distant Stations on Air

RADIO is getting so opportunity to hit back at the reporters for all the silly days which the gentlemen of the press have poked at members of the younger profession from time to time. Tonight at 8 o'clock, WJZ comes on the air with a new feature bearing the significant label, "The Cub Reporter." Here is a opportunity to do something good. There is plenty of comedy in the life of tragedy, unending variety and occasional romance in the life of the reporter. If this can be dashed up in just the right way, there is a chance to create a feature that will get a quick and responsive audience.

For a summer Saturday night, the General Electric radio program makes few aesthetic demands upon its listeners tonight. The popular feature will come as usual through WEAF-WEAL at 8 o'clock with an interesting selection of fairly light compositions of real musical worth. Gladys Rice will sing popular numbers to be announced.

Two tenor solos, a duet and a choral number will be heard during the Sorrento Serenaders' broadcast from WNAC and the Columbia System at 8 o'clock. "Boler d'Amore," "Margherita de Parate" and "Serenade" will be sung by Giuseppe de Vita and Carlo Cifari, accompanied by the orchestra under the direction of Michael di Zito, which will also play the "Sorrento March" and "La Sinfonia."

Forest Fire Rakes
Mt. Desert Island
Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 24.—There were three separate forest fires burning on Mt. Desert Island over an area of about 100 acres. A crew of men and boys was working hard, but the only thing that could be done was to try to stop the flames in cleared places. Huge clouds of smoke were rolling up toward Somersville, in the center of the island, five miles from Bar Harbor in the Town Hill district.

Firemen Save Lovell Bridge
Lowell, Aug. 24.—For the third time this week and the second time within four hours, Engine 8 was called to extinguish a blaze on the Bealmont Catholic City block. The second of the day was the more serious and for a time the entire structure appeared doomed. Quick work on the part of the firemen, however, brought the blaze under control before any great damage was done.

Mahogany Handles Last Word in Style

Fall River, Aug. 24.—Stories to the effect that nothing but mahogany furniture had been installed in the new offices in city hall were given credence by the fact that a mahogany chair from the office of City Manager Edward P. Harrington with samples of mahogany for the office to look over with a view of placing an order for pick handles made out of that material.

The salesman told the city manager that he had learned that nothing but mahogany was being used in this city at the present and this was the reason for his visit. After City Manager Harrington had received from the office he called up Sup. of Streets Jeremiah F. Doyle to get his opinion and report if the street laborers would prefer mahogany pick handles rather than those made of ordinary wood. The salesman left the manager's office without securing an order.

Thousands who long for the empty spaces of the air, in contrast to crowded automobile roads, ask, "how long before flying will be possible for everyone?" Already, there are 3,000 privately owned planes in the United States, with the number steadily increasing. There are still many mechanical problems to be met, however, before flying can become as common as automobile riding. Read an illuminating article on the problems of private flying, next Sunday, in The American Weekly.

Miss Norelius Discovers

MARTHA KNEW WHEN TO TURN PRO—$10,000

MARTHA NORELIOUS, wonder swimmer, grew a bit peeved with amateur officials. Martha held a few world records and didn't think she was getting proper recognition or something like that. So she walked out of the party.

Her first reward for that is $10,000, picked up by winning the Wrigley Marathon. Martha, who knows her trudgeon, swam away from a great field and carved some 10 minutes off the record.

Her peavee was profitable. She also is eligible for the open marathon next Wednesday, in which the famous German baker, Vierkotter, and other stars compete. Martha will probably win that one. She's just a natural fish.

These days the boys seem to have not much more than half a chance when the girls set themselves to work to win some big event. Martha has an opportunity now to prove that sport millionaires do not have to be men.

She is in a spot to make more money than any woman who ever tried pro sports. Susanne Lenglen collected a flock in one tour, but her vogue passed, because she couldn't find any real competition. There is plenty in the swimming racket.

Did You Know?

That professional golfers pay their own expenses to all tournaments. And except the Hagens, get nothing but the trip. That veteran ball players get lost in the big cities. Just like babies.

That Willie Shafer, who used to play third for the Giants, is a great golfer. And playing in the amateur at Pebbles Beach. That prohibition seems to have affected can chowder. And made it synthetic.

That Sam Carrick can remember every play in every ball game he has seen over thirty years. And never is wrong.

That Franklin Park golfers gather at five Sunday mornings. And have to wait even then.

That Alexander probably holds the record for breaking training. But never was paid for it before.

That Kid Singer is supposed to be a second Benny Leonard. And thinks that way himself.

Only One Helen

Helen Wills will win the women's tennis title again this afternoon. Unless the most startling of all sport miracles happens. Young stars shoot up, and threaten, but always Little Pucker Face appears, romps through to victory, and waits for more wonders to conquer.

There has been talk lately that Helen was slipping; that her game was slowing up. It also was whispered that she intended to retire, and didn't care what happened. Miss Wills is a smart young lady. She knows the value of her tennis publicity. And she also loves her game, else she wouldn't be the unbeatable champ she is.

Helen will stay in there until some new marvel comes to take the throne. As things look that will not be for quite some time. Her pace has been devastating in this championship.

Nat Butler with an umbrella under his arm—Clarence Lloyd of the Cardinals wishing that every day was ladies day—Harry Kelly steering Bob Mills around: quite a pilot, Harry—Phil Buccolo getting ready to manage Sammy Fuller: Phil doesn't care what he tries—Eddie Mack getting notes on a Schaaf-Maloney match—Jim Fay still giving away Legion golf prizes—Ralph Clifford showing pictures of himself to all his friends—Pat McCarthy paging a scrap with somebody—but nobody paging Pat—Arthur Duffy waiting he waited a few years before writing his article—hockeys and skates in sport store windows—winter is coming.

League Umpiring Worst in Years, Is Claim

FEW CAPABLE ARBITERS IN GAME

WINS $10,000 IN WRIGLEY SWIM

By JOE CASHMAN
IT is the almost unanimous opinion of veteran ball players, scribes and fans everywhere that the umpiring in the big leagues this season is the worst ever.

It is charged that few of the younger generation of arbiters are capable while most of the veteran officials have slipped so much that they are any better than the newcomers.

The "umps" we would say from what we have seen of them, are guilty on all counts.

They have so much power and so little work that nearly all of them have become careless and consequently inefficient.

There are ex-

Joe Cashman ceptions such as Klem, Quigley, Rigler, Connolly, Dinneen and Van Graftan, and a few others, but the bigger part of more than the score of major league arbiters can't or, if they can, don't fill the bill.

UMPIRES must be clothed with plenty of authority; their word must be supreme. Else most ball games would be nothing but pitched battles and the sport would quickly die.

But the men in whom this authority is invested should all be excellent arbiters. Most of them now in service aren't.

Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, was the best friend the umpires ever had. He was the first to make their word law and he always backed them up.

But Ban made sure before appointing a man that he had all the qualifications to be a great umpire and then saw to it that he performed his duties well in the big show. If he failed he didn't last long.

The majority of "umps" now on the job would never have been appointed had Old Ban been doing the picking, and more than half of them would be on the outside looking in before another season rolled around, if he had anything to say about it.

IT ISN'T because the umpires are making so many rank decisions daily that so much fault is being found with their work. It is human to err and the best of officials make mistakes frequently and shouldn't be blamed for it.

Most of the poor decisions they are making, though, are the result of carelessness or ignorance, on both. That's why they are being censured and they deserve to be. Outside of Bill Klem and Tommy Connolly, we haven't seen one comprise this season who stood in the right place from the start to the finish of a ball game. On almost every play, they are in the worst possible position to see it correctly and the decision is often wrong as right.

The right place to call a play at first base is back of the bag in foul territory. All but the exceptional named call plays at the initial sack

Fielders have to duck them going after the ball, watch out that they don't hit them when they throw it and the runner never knows when he is going to bump into them. And they continually meander down to second base when it is the third base umpires job to be there, and when they get there, they stand in the very spot where they are most likely to interfere with the game either by being hit by a throw or batted ball or being run into by fielders or runner.

At the plate they are almost as bad. Nine times out of ten when there is a decision on a runner to be made at home, they will be over near the players bench on the third base side where they can't possibly see what is going on.

FEW of the younger ones even know the rules. "Get Out," is all they can say when asked to explain a decision.

A lot of older ones do know the rules and were once good umpires.

THE Braves and Cards play the third game of their series at the Wigwam this afternoon. Each team has won a game to date, but the Braves have won the last two.

visitors, taking the opener and Bobby Smith turning back the champions before an enthusiastic gathering on Ladies' Day.

Jess Haines used to be able to beat the Braves by merely looking at them, but no longer. When he was humiliated out of the box in the second game it was the third time in a row that he failed to go the distance against the Tribesmen.

Good Time Guy

SO YOU DON'T THINK

HOOEY HAS A CHANCE AND YOU WANT ME TO RUN AS YOUR POLITICAL PROTEGE? I SUPPOSE IF I WERE ELECTED MAYOR YOU'D STILL WANT ME TO TELL YOU THAT CITY-OWNED SQUATTER LAND TO BE RE-SOLD BY YOU FOR AN AIRPORT!

CERTAINLY! THINK OF THE GREAT PROFIT FOR BOTH OF US!

OF COURSE, IF I DID THAT I WOULDN'T BE KEEPING TRUTH WITH THE VOTERS, BUT THAT WOULDN'T HAVE ANY DIFFERENCE TO YOU!! I SUPPOSE I'D ALSO BE EXPECTED TO RUN ALL THOSE SQUATTERS OFF THEIR PROPERTY?

SURE, BUT I'LL GIVE YOU MY UNLIMITED SUPPORT.

HOOEY PROBABLY WON'T DO THAT FOR ME, BUT HE'LL HAVE A CHANCE THIS ELECTION.

I'LL RUN FOR GOVERNOR.

I'LL RUN FOR SENATOR.

Big Boy Rawson Must Defeat Mills or Quit Ring

BOUT WITH BIG MILLS CRUCIAL

BIG BOY RAWSON, Dorchester knockout king, will face the turning point of his career next Thursday night when he meets Bob Mills, heavyweight champion of New Hampshire, in a 10-round return match at Fenway Park.

The youthful Irish heavyweight, boasting the most terrific punch of any 200 pounder in the game, should make a fortune if he manages to punch his way past Mills, while if he is defeated, he will be forced to retire from the game.

Mills is the favorite to beat Rawson, just as he beat him when they fought at the Arena some months ago. At that time, Rawson laughed at the idea of gymnasium work. He had supreme confidence in his punch, and felt that he could knock out any man he could hit.

He knocked Mills down four times, but the New Hampshire heavyweight persisted in getting up, and finally caught the third Rawson and won the most sensational fight of the indoor season.

Rawson trained with Elmer Rouse, giant lumberjack, and Joe Vinches, Lithuanian heavyweight, at Toland's gym, while Mills was going through his paces with Arthur Frankie Pitt and Paul Weathers at Kelley & Hayes' gymnasium.

Larry Brignola, of Cambridge, who recently knocked out Tommy Daley of Lynn and Nick Madonna of Lexington, who has stopped his last four opponents in short order, were matched today for the semifinal bout of eight rounds.

The bout should prove a thriller for the fans, as Brignola is a master boxer and Madonna a terrific puncher.

The Jimmy McConnel-Arthur Sullivan bout for the welterweight championship of Weymouth and the South Shore is attracting plenty of interest in their home sector.

Johnny Daley, former amateur star, and Goodie Schwartz of Cambridge, will do battle in a six round return match, and in the other bouts already announced, Leslie Baker will attempt to score his third consecutive knockout victory against Joe Wieman of the Coast Guard, Joe Mack of Lynn will meet Tony Balala of Watertown, and Jack Moulton of Roxbury will battle Jim Griffin of Cambridge.

FLOWERS HERE NEXT WEEK

Bruce Flowers of New Rochelle, N. Y., one of the outstanding contenders for the lightweight throne, now occupied by Sammy Mandell, plans to arrive in the Hub early next week to finish his training for his important bout with Jake Zermaby, Lynn schoolboy, which is scheduled at Braves Field, Tuesday night, Sept. 2.

Flowers, always a big gate attraction here and regarded as one of the best crowd pleasers among the present day lightweight already has appeared in two bouts in this city against Honeyboy Finnegan and he regards the Hub as a lucky spot for him.

Although he had heard nothing but the highest sort of praise concerning the ability of Zermaby, the flashy negro feels confident that he can crush the winning streak of the Lynn lightweight.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

Now, shifting your weight forward. You will recall my point that between the top of your back swing and the takeoff for the forward swing you pause veritably, to let your club accumulate its maximum energy and to make the turn. Here the weight shift differs from that of the back swing, because in the forward swing your first exertion is to get your weight over—then swing. So you make that transfer, and it is accomplished by that step forward, or glide, seemingly through your middle body, until your left foot strikes the ground again. Meanwhile, the club swings along, and as it swings, your left leg braces more and more to absorb the forward-swinging weight of your body. That's all there is to it with the forward shift, but you must be sure of two things: First, get your weight over the ball before you do anything else. Then, having it over to the left and onto your left leg hold it there. That is, don't let your body swing forward through the forward swing this weight must be evenly distributed.

Lynn Wins to Gain on Manchester

By CHARLES HOFFMAN

LYNN defeated the former Fitchburg team, now Gloucester, at the stadium by the score of 3 to 2 in 10 innings.

Zarkow on the mound for the Glosters, held the Lynn champs at bay until the fifth inning, when Bob Smith, playing his first game for Lynn, doubled, Whelan struck, and Lennie Dugan also singled producing the first two runs.

In the tenth, Dwyers hit with two sacrifices and a wild pitch, by Zarkow brought in the winning run.

Tom Ruane, batted well for the Glosters, getting two hits out of four times at bat, including a double. Schmitt pitched good ball but was taken out for a pinch hitter in the fifth, and Jack Cushman who took the place, was given credit for winning the game.

Lynn gained a half game on Manchester, as the Blue Sox did not play on account of rain.

The Brockton-Levittown battle was also called off because of rain.

The Saunders, second leading batter in the league, beat New Bedford for the second day in succession, by hitting a home run. He also hit a single. Both homers sailed over the left field fence.

Boss Snyder, also hit for the circuit, with two on in the first inning.

Bernie McHugh, had a good day.

FINE GAME AT ROMAN PARK GOOD GOLF ON NEXT WEEK

The feature baseball attraction in Dorchester tomorrow will be the game at Roman Park, between the Dorchester A. A. and the Neponset Wanderers.

This will be the second game of a three game series between the two teams, the first of which will be played today at Garvey Playground.

The two teams are old time rivals both in baseball and football. In the two games that they have played against each other this season in the Dorchester-Two Leagues, the Neponset team won the first, and the Dorchester A. A. won the second.

The lineup for the Dorchester A. A. for Sunday will be: C. Hanford, shortstop; Joe Kozel, second base; O. Sanford, right field; B. Radigan, left field; J. Murphy, first base; W. Baker, center field; J. Pail, third base; G. Baker, catcher, and other McCarthy or Kraus will pitch. Father Lindvall or Mann will pitch for Neponset, with Allen catching.

Outstanding on next week's tournament list is the three day medal and match play tournament of the Woodland Golf Club and the Newspapermen's Golf Association gathering at Franklin Park on Monday to be the guests of Mayor Macdonald & Nichols.

Along with the Woodland and Franklin Park tournaments, there will be open handicap medal play affairs staged on Friday and Saturday by the Sandy Hurst Country Club and the Maverick Golf Club and the N. E. P. G. O. ladies' event at Tolisco on Monday. Woodland should attract the largest field of the season for its medal and match play tournament. The Auburndale course is one of the most popular in New England and regardless of weather conditions a tournament at Woodland never wants for entries.

Greatest Story Yet Told of the Girl of Today

WHAT HAS COME BEFORE
Unlike her bold and modern flapper sisters, Jennie and Alice, Ann Marie May refuses to compromise her high ideals by getting into the hands of a man. She saves the money she earns in her father's bookstore to study art. When John Lawler, catch-of-the-town, invites her to the Christmas dance, her happiness is short-lived as Alice selfishly requests Ann Marie to stay home while she attends the party in her place. Alice and Jennie further infuriate Ann Marie by pilfering her Christmas bottle of rare perfume. When Florence Lawler brings her visiting cousin, Neal Forsythe, and his friend Jim Goodwin, to the May store, Ann Marie is torn between her love with the fickle Neal. It is the more serious Goodwin, however, who is enamored of Ann Marie. He leaves the dance to visit her in the bookstore.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER I.

"HOW am I going to get home?" Ann Marie repeated impatiently. "Why, I'm going to walk home, of course." "Along?" "Why of course," Ann Marie laughed. "It's only ten minutes in another half-hour I'll shut up shop—there's not a thing to be afraid of in this town. I know everybody in it and always have."

Jim Goodwin slipped out of his overcoat and laid it down upon the table of new fiction. "This town isn't so far away from New York," he said, his dark eyes watching her solemn face from under thick straight eyebrows. "And a lot of riff-

ANN-MARIE MAKES A DISCOVERY

Only a Superb Writer Could Depict These Situations With All the Thrills

There was Neal making love to the most common girl in town.

"To see Neal Forsythe once more, that night—To dance with him perhaps, and to feel his arm around her? It would be heavenly."

"Did Florence find a girl for Mr. Forsythe?" she asked as she got up and began to put the other in order for the night.

Jim Goodwin shook his head. "No, Mr. Neal can always look out for himself. He was having a great time when I was here. Ann Marie had a sudden vision of him. She thought, 'What a perfect girl for the shop! The perfect girl for my musical comedy.'"

The front of the house was in darkness. But there was a light in the kitchen, and all eyes were turned to the Christmas tree. The room was filled with the Christmas smell of sage-oil and cinnamon. The lights were on, and the room was bright.

Ann Marie made up her mind, thinking things over in the car. She looked out the window and saw the lights at the gate, and up the drive.

But whether she was "nice" or not, Ann Marie was a girl. Her hair was a golden brown, and her eyes were gray and nervous. She had dimples and the sort of figure that made a girl a girl.

Ann Marie's only evening coat was a shabby blackish thing made from one of her winter coats by Mrs. Lawrence's hands.

Ann Marie was a girl of 19, and she was glad that everything was over. She had a good time, and she was home.

She hung Ann Marie's cape on a chair, and she looked at the clock. It was 11:30. She had a long time to wait.

He turned and looked at her gravely, and Ann Marie smiled back at him, full of warmth and friendliness. He was a man to be friendly and natural with.

It was a long time before she could get to sleep. She was thinking of Neal, and of the night when she had seen him.

But there was no box there now. Ann Marie opened the door, and she looked out into the hall. "Neal?" she called.

Concluded from Yesterday.
When Roger opened his eyes the nurse was standing there, where Nancy had stood.

"Mr. and Mrs. MacKimmions are here. If you're not too tired," she said.

"How are you, Decatur? Well... looking fine." There was Jack MacKimmions, and at his heels, Helen.

"Oh, Mr. Decatur, I'm so sorry to hear you were injured. I told Jack, I couldn't have felt worse if it was a brother."

ever in all your life." "Hurry, MacKimmions got up stupidly. "Only I won't, who?"

"Find her," Roger said. "For God's sake find her. MacKimmions came back to the pillow. The helpless, irresponsible state of weakness came to his eyes. He turned to the wall again to hide them."

MacKimmions made for the door, and after he went his wife, Helen. It was not hard to find Nancy. They stumbled over her, weeping at the dark turn of the stairs.

The French-Canadian

He Worries Mr. Dexter.

Members of the Institute of Politics at Williamstown spent an entire day worrying about the status of the French-Canadian in New England.

It appears, according to Mr. Robert Dexter, secretary of the Department of Social Relations of the American Unitarian Association, that there are between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 French-Canadians in the United States, more than 1,000,000 in these six States.

Mr. Dexter, we read, "fears no intention of the French-Canadian group to annex New England to the Dominion." What worries him is that they have had two governors of Rhode Island and now a senator from that state, "where they dominate the political situation."

The fact is that on several occasions the Republican organization in Rhode Island was smart enough to pick the late Aram J. Potbury, an estimable banker, as its candidate for governor and thus snatch victory from impending defeat. Unable to carry the state for Mr. Hoover last November, they have been congratulating themselves ever since upon the judgment which dictated the nomination of Senator Robert With Hobart they beat Peter Goulet Gerry.

Mr. Dexter is, in our opinion, alarmed without reason. But we leave him altogether, taking our way laughingly, when he reports that:

"Even in Canada this people presents the same problem by remaining loyal first of all to France and second to the country in which it dwells."

Ask your English-speaking friend in Montreal about that. The average French-Canadian in Canada LOVES his Province of Quebec, cares VERY little for France.

There ARE problems before the U. S. A. The American whose grandfather came from French Canada is NOT one of them.

Slattery vs. Curley

Another "Battle of the Century."

If, as now appears likely, Chairman Francis E. Slattery of the Schoolhouse Commission is to be Mr. Curley's principal contender in this year's mayoralty contest, Boston is in for a battle which should go a long way to make up for the palls of gloom which have hung all summer over Fenway Park and Braves Field.

A graduate of Georgetown College and Harvard Law School, Mr. Slattery is a giant of a man who will enter the lists in the very pink of physical condition. He will need to be at his best to stand up against the gentleman in the other corner, and his backers—among them, perhaps, the Good Government Association—will see that he is.

Mr. Curley requires no introduction. In 1914, he was successful over the late Thomas J. Kenny by 5740 votes, and in 1921 victorious over John R. Murphy by 2470.

If outsiders will continue to be outsiders, and the Curley-Slattery go can be thus restricted, it will be speedily demonstrated that rallies have not lost their drawing power.

Get your tickets early and avoid the rush.

Two Big Banks

Joined Together Mean ONE More Powerful Bank.

Except for the rank and importance of the institutions, there is nothing particularly new in the reported merger of the Old Colony Trust Company and the First National Bank of Boston.

Merger is the order of the day, as indeed it has been, in the banking field more especially, of other days. One well-known banking institution of this city, standing fourth among the banks of New England, is the product of 15 smaller banks. This is the age of "big" things; big theaters, big hotels, big steamships, big aircraft, big automobile manufacturers, big groceries—the latter split into thousands of units and covering the country.

A First National-Old Colony union will mean that Boston is keeping step with the procession. It may signify more. It may be New England's way of saying that if bigness really is the thing, New England wants a big bank of its very own.

200 Miles on a Gallon

That May Come.

(Copyright, 1929)

If automobile builders increased compression in their engines, as they might do, gasoline bills would be reduced very, very, very.

But under present engineering methods increasing compression increases "the knock."

Why engines knock, and how to control that knock, is thus far beyond human knowledge. Scientists admit it.

Some young man will make the knock vanish. If YOU could do that you would make many millions, perhaps two or three billions, even. There is more money in a corner of the human brain than in any gold or diamond mine. But like the mine, THE BRAIN MUST BE WORKED.

ONCE-OVERS

HAVE you ever noticed that most of the things to which you object are matters of which you have little knowledge? It is so easy to condemn a thing you don't understand. A lazy way to save yourself the work of becoming familiar with a certain subject is to take a position in opposition. When asked why you oppose it, it is easy to say "upon general principles."

Behind this shield many persons hide. How often you say "I have no opinion against it."

Another subterfuge. You would not be so strongly opinionated if you took time to know.

Too many of your ideas are formed upon superficial knowledge.

Who Is Your Favorite Goat-Getting Driver?

By FRANKLIN COLLIER

THE FELLOW WHO GETS UNDER OUR SKIN IS THE SAPI IN THE DIA. FLINER WHO GETS THE IDEA THAT BECAUSE THE MAN IN AN EIGHT CYLINDER CAR PASSES HIM AT TWENTY MILES AN HOUR IT IS A CHALLENGE TO RACE.

HE IMMEDIATELY SPEEDS UP, PASSES THE BIG CAR AND A FEW MOMENTS LATER SLOWS DOWN TO HIS FORMER SPEED. MAN IN BIG CAR IN ORDER TO MAINTAIN HIS SCHEDULED PACE TO REACH OFFICE ON TIME, IS FORCED TO PASS FLINER AGAIN.

FLINER DRIVER OUTRAGED BY THIS AFFRONTMENT, ON PART OF OTHER DRIVER, RATTLES BY AGAIN AND CUTS IN, JUST IN TIME TO AVOID BEING HIT BY ONE OF DROHAN'S TRUCKS OR A STREET CAR, WHILE MAN IN LARGER CAR HAS TO JAM ON BRAKES TO AVOID A COLLISION.

FLINER DRIVER IS BOUND HE IS GOING TO KEEP AHEAD OF HIS CAR IF IT IS LAST THING HE DOES.

Listen, World!

America one of the most uncomfortable nations on earth? We, having made a clearance, live in a continent made uncomfortable by a JUNGLE OF INSTINCTS OF COMFORT.

"We multiply our luxuries—our cars, our houses, our clothes, our food, our amusements, our comforts—until we have become a nation of millionaires, and we are still not satisfied."

Bernard Shaw, who criticizes amusingly, and rarely says anything constructive, says the Tories lost the last election because they did not understand "WINDOW DRESSING."

The fact is that the Tories did not have anything with which to dress their political window.

Here you see some of the cartoons that labor used to win the fight.
